

Editorial

The Journal of Janaprakash Multidisciplinary Studies (JJMS) with ISSN: 3021-9892 in print and ISSN 3021-9906 in online versions is a multidisciplinary journal published biannually by the Janaprakash Multiple Campus, which is an affiliated campus of Tribhuvan University. The journal is committed to advancing publications of scholarly research articles, review articles, theoretical notes, and case studies. The journal provides a forum for scholars and practitioners from diverse and multidisciplinary viewpoints and discuss theories and practices focusing on management, social science, education, law, arts and humanities, the environment, language, literature, pedagogy, and statistics among others. The journal publishes in English and Nepali languages and provides high values for research conducted using primary and secondary data collected and processed by the researcher(s). The articles are also accepted in specific areas: gender studies, globalization, human resource development, language and communication, population, enterprises and entrepreneurship, public and business policies, management of social welfare, social work, tourism, internship and apprenticeship among others. The journal is also expected to function as the medium of disseminating standard conference papers through this journal.

Teaching is always required to be based on research and the higher education teaching staff should regularly publish scholarly research articles, theoretical notes, review articles, case studies singly on his/her areas of concentration and expertise, as well as jointly with co-workers in common areas, and with students in areas where students have interests to their dissertation and other research works. As research and publication are the major activities for knowledge creation, this journal is expected to supplement the needs of scholars in accessing avenue for their scholarly publications. Thus, this journal encourages faculties, researchers and students to publish their research work as it has provided and expanded the platform to publish research outputs and other scholarly writings.

Submitted papers are referred, and are evaluated on the basis of academic contribution to the body of knowledge by advancing understanding of creativity, quality of scholarship, completeness of the content and the structure/components of research, clarity of the presentation and organization, accuracy and correctness academically, consistency in findings, thoroughness in discussion and conclusion, appropriate referencing and citation, and language usage.

This volume is the first attempt in publication, which has incorporated six articles of different areas of studies and contributors from different institutions. The Editorial Board in the future will consider to publish special issues with dedicated articles in one specific faculty.

The Editorial Board in this regard sincerely thanks to all the contributors for submitting their articles within given short period of time. We would like to extend our sincere thanks to the reviewers of these papers. Similarly, the Janaprakash Research Management Committee and the Campus Administration are praise worthy as they have facilitated the Board in making the publication process smooth.