

MESSAGE

Dear Readers,

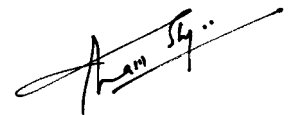

Greetings and welcome to the inaugural issue of “MED PHOENIX”, the Official Medical Journal of National Medical College, Birgunj, Nepal. I commend the collective efforts and vision of the members of the Editorial Board in realizing the publication of this journal.

National Medical College has come a long way since its inception and publication of the official journal is a landmark testimony of endorsement of scientific research among faculty members and students of this institution.

I express full conviction that this journal will serve as an eminent communication channel for researchers concerned with all aspects of Medicine.

May I have these few words to our readership: the success of this journal in the years to come depends on you. Your contribution in terms of submission of research articles and sharing your ideas to help improve this journal in the forthcoming issues matter a lot to us.

Finally, I wish to share with all members of the Editorial Board and our readership my cherished joy to have learnt about the launch of the Official Medical Journal of this premier institution in the field of Medical Education.
