

Editor's Note

It is our pleasure to present before you the 14th volume of the journal “Nepalese Horticulture”, an official publication of Nepal Horticulture Society (NHS) which was established in 1990. On top of this, the society has been regularly publishing the workshop proceedings of the National Horticulture Seminars, books, manuals, reviews and other client’s demanding publications related to horticulture. Being a professional society, NHS holds together all the horticulturists in Nepal working in diverse fields related to horticulture including private sector. Nepalese Horticulture is the outcome of scientific research studies, investigations and critical reviews which are very important for achieving proper livelihood, food security, poverty alleviation, public health and pollution free environment foreseen by the state policies and plans as well as millennium goals.

The NHS Editorial Board, with much gratitude, acknowledges the valuable contributions of the authors whose articles have been published in this issue as well as those authors whose articles could not be accommodated in this issue because of some technical reasons. Similarly, it also acknowledges the valuable support of the peer reviewers for their painstaking work of reviewing the articles. It further encourages researchers, development workers and private entrepreneurs for their continued support with their authorship.

We gratefully acknowledge the cooperation and support extended by various institutions and individuals who have made the publication of this issue possible. We are also very much thankful to all the subscribers, readers and well-wishers of Nepalese Horticulture. We look forward to your continued supports in the future, too. Thanks!
