

---

The Outlook: Journal of English Studies

ISSN: 2565-4748 (Print); ISSN: 2773-8124 (Online)

Published by Department of English, Prithvi Narayan Campus
Tribhuvan University, Pokhara, Nepal

[A Peer-Reviewed, Open Access Journal; Indexed in NepJOL]

<http://ejournals.pncampus.edu.np/ejournals/outlook/>

---

Contributors

- Assoc. Prof. Bhanu Bhakta Sharma Kandel, PhD, works at the Department of English, Prithvi Narayan Campus, Tribhuvan University, Pokhara. He has an additional degree in Anthropology as well and he has his interest in research especially in the field of Cultural Anthropology and literature.
- Asst. Prof. Bharat Raj Dhakal teaches at School of Development and Social Engineering, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, Pokhara University, Pokhara. He is the coordinator of Bachelor of English and Communication Studies at Pokhara University. His areas of interest are cultural studies, Eco-philosophy, and subaltern studies. He has published various articles in his areas of research.
- Asst. Prof. Dipendra Raj Regmi works at the Department of English, Prithvi Narayan Campus, Tribhuvan University, Pokhara. He is currently pursuing his M. Phil. degree from the Central Department of English, Tribhuvan University, Kirtipur. He has published a few articles in some journals.
- Asst. Prof. Ganga Ram Paudyal works at the Department of English, Prithvi Narayan Campus, Tribhuvan University, Pokhara. He is currently pursuing his M. Phil. degree from Nepal Open University, Manbawan, Lalitpur. His areas of interest are philosophy, cultural studies, and language studies. He has published a few articles in some journals.
- Asst. Prof. Keshav Raj Chalise, PhD, works at Nepal Sanskrit University, Kalika Sanskrit Vidyapeeth. He holds PhD from Nepal Sanskrit University in Vedic theology and transcendental literature. His research articles have appeared in national and international journals. He has contributed three books in his area and Springer Nature has published his article on Eco-culture as a chapter of a book.
- Asst. Prof. Keshab Sigdel works at the Central Department of English, Tribhuvan University. His areas of interest are Nepal Studies, law and literature, human rights and justice, and creative writing. He has published numerous articles in different journals.
- Asst. Prof. Kumari Lama works at Tribhuvan Multiple Campus, Palpa. She has done her M.Phil. in English Literature from Tribhuvan University Nepal and MBA in Human Resource Management from the University of Wales Trinity Saint David, United Kingdom. She has published a collection of essays Ujyalo Andhakar (2014). She writes on marginalized issues and regularly contributes for National papers. She runs Aawahana, a literary forum.

Contributors

---

- Asst. Prof. Mahendra Kumar Budhathoki, PhD, works at Bishwa Bhasha Campus, Tribhuvan University, Kathmandu, Nepal. He has published various articles on language, literature and cultural studies.
- Asst. Prof. Ram Prasad Rai works at the Department of English, Ratna Rajya Laxmi Campus, Tribhuvan University, Kathmandu. He was awarded for his M. Phil. degree from the Institute of Advanced Communication, Education, and Research (IACER), Pokhara University, Kathmandu in 2015. He has published a few articles in his areas of research.
- Asst. Prof. Sabindra Raj Bhandari, PhD, works at the Department of English, Prithvi Narayan Campus, Tribhuvan University, Pokhara. His areas of research include philosophy and literature. He has published numerous articles related to his areas of interest in national and international journals.
- Asst. Prof. Yog Raj Lamichhane works at the Department of English, School of Business, Pokhara University, Pokhara. He has been teaching English and Communication there. Currently, he is a student of M. Phil. in the Central Department of English, Tribhuvan University. His earlier publications are mainly focused on communication, culture and environment. Correspondingly, his research interest sits largely within communication, environment, culture, social media and social trauma. However, the paper is about the cultural shift of the youth activism in Nepal.