Dear Readers,

We are deeply honored and privileged to be partaking in the 25th edition of the journal "The Shivapuri," published by the Army Command and Staff College. Esteemed readers, this journal has consistently stood as a cornerstone publication of the college, reflecting its varied ideas and captivating pursuits. Our aim for this edition is to incorporate insightful research and well-crafted articles that will captivate scholars and readers, providing fresh perspectives and practical implications for the field.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to the commandant, the college faculty, and the administration for their steadfast dedication and support, crucial in attaining this academic milestone. Our sincere appreciation also goes out to all the contributors who have enriched this journal with diverse perspectives and opinions.

Last but not the least, the wealth of knowledge and experience within this journal promises to contribute significantly to academic and intellectual growth. The editorial board eagerly anticipates receiving valuable feedback, recommendations, and constructive criticism regarding the content featured in this edition.
